GROWTH OF ILLINOIS.—From the returns already received it is certain that the population of Illinois is considerably over two millions. Its growth during the past five years is truly remarkable, and far greater than we had a right to expect. Only thirty-six counties of the one hundred and two in the State have made their returns, and their gains exceed 200,000. We do not look for so large a relative increase in the remaining sixty-six counties, but think it is safe to estimate the total population on the first of July, 1865, at 2,[illegible], being an increase of 100,000 [illegible]. And this immense gain has been accomplished during a war which drained 250,000 of the able-bodied young men out of the State. We think no other State can show as rapid an increase of population as Illinois since 1860.

If the State continues for the next five years to be as rapid as during the past five, the census of 1870 will place Illinois ahead of Ohio, making her the Empire State of the Great West, and the third in rank in the whole Union. We believe such will be the result, and that the population of this State at the next census will be close on three millions. We believe, also, that Chicago will outnumber Cincinnati as well as Illinois outnumbers Ohio. 1870 will find this city in possession of nearly, if not quite fully, 300,000 souls. Long before that time the vast trade of the great plains, from the Missouri river to the Rocky Mountains, will be chiefly concentrated at this point. The whole Platte River Valley country, including Colorado, Utah and Idaho, will obtain their supplies from this market, over the air line railroads across Iowa to Council Bluffs.—Chicago Tribune.

The belief is very generally entertained that negro labor is essential to the cultivation of cotton in our Southern States. This belief, however, is not sustained by the facts in the case, and is predicated chiefly upon observations confined to the large rivers and rivers towns in the South. An examination of the interior farms and markets of that section would discover that a very large proportion of the cotton crop of the South has been grown annually by white labor. A gentleman who claims to have had the fullest opportunities for learning the facts, recently said to the editor of the Nashville Dispatch, that from forty years' observation, his belief is that fully one half, and probably more, of the cotton grown in this country has been uniformly the product of white labor. If this be true, we need not anticipate any great falling off in the amount of cotton that will be raised in the South hereafter, though the negroes may not prove as efficient laborers as freemen as they have been as slaves. Wherever they will not work effectively they must give way to white men, who will rapidly adapt themselves to the demands for labor throughout the South.

THE ASSASSINATION ADVERTISEMENT.—It will be recollected that, during the conspiracy trial, that two printers, employed in the office of the Selma Dispatch, testified that George W. Gale was the author of an advertisement which appeared in the Dispatch, soliciting contributions of a million dollars with which to procure the assassination of President Lincoln and certain members of his Cabinet. Gale was in Washington when the testimony was given, and had engaged counsel to conduct his case, in the event of his trial in Washington. But he was removed south, where he has ever since been in confinement. Recently the President ordered that he be transferred to a civil instead of a military Court for trial, in Alabama.

COPPER.—Sixty copper mining companies are now in operation on Lake Superior.

The official majority of Governor Dillingham of Vermont is 18,716.

Ch[illegible] already [illegible] Illinois [illegible] growth during the past [illegible] able and far greater than we [illegible]. Only thirty-six counties [illegible] and two in the State have [illegible] their gains [illegible] 300,000 [illegible] so large a relative increase [illegible] six counties [illegible] total population [illegible] 200,000 [illegible] And this immense gain has been [illegible] during a war which [illegible] bodied young men out [illegible] other State can show [illegible] population as Illinois since 1860.

If the State continues for the next five years to be as rapid as during the past five, the census of 1870 will place Illinois [illegible] the Empire State [illegible] the third in rank in the whole Union. We [illegible] be the result, and that the population of this State at the next census will [illegible] We believe also that Chicago will [illegible] Cincinnati as well as Illinois [illegible] 1870 will find this city in possession [illegible] not quite fully, [illegible] time the vast trade of the great [illegible] from the Missouri river to the Rocky Mountains, will be chiefly concentrated at this point. The whole Platte River Valley country, including Colorado, Utah and Idaho will obtain their supplies from this market, over the [illegible] across Iowa to Council Bluffs.—Chicago Times.

The belief is very generally entertained that negro labor is essential to the cultivation of cotton in our Southern States. This belief, however, is not sustained by the facts in the case, and is predicated chiefly upon observations confined to the large rivers [illegible] An examination [illegible] that section would disclose [illegible] proportion of the cotton crop of the South has been grown annually by white labor. A gentleman who [illegible] the fullest opportunity for learning the facts, recently said to the editor of the Nashville Dispatch that from forty years' observation, his belief is that fully one-half, and probably more, of the cotton grown in [illegible] country has been uniformly the product [illegible] If this be true we need not anticipate any great falling off in the amount of cotton that will be raised in the South hereafter, though the negroes may not prove as efficient laborers as freemen as they have been as slaves. Wherever they will not work effectively they must give way to white men, who will rapidly adapt themselves to the demands for labor throughout the South.

THE ASSASSINATION ADVERTISEMENT.—It will be recollected that during the conspiracy trial that two printers, employed in the office of the Selma Dispatch, testified that George W. Gayle was the author of an advertisement which appeared in the Dispatch soliciting contributions of a million dollars with which to procure the assassination of President Lincoln and certain members of his Cabinet. Gayle was in Washington when the testimony was given, and had engaged counsel to conduct his case, in the event of his trial in Washington. But he was removed south, where he has ever since been in confinement. Recently the President ordered that he be transferred to a civil instead of a military Court for trial, in Alabama.

COPPER.—Sixty copper mining companies are now in operation on Lake Superior.

The official majority of Governor Dillingham of Vermont is 18,710.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 30, 1865

Prospects of Maximilian's Empire.

Though Mexican journals announce the arrival of French troops at Vera Cruz, as late as the 19th of September, the information is growing strong that his Imperial Majesty of France does not intend to [illegible] Mexico with his soldiers a great while longer. Indeed the telegraph has repeatedly informed us that the French troops now in Mexico are shortly to be withdrawn. In that event Maximilian will at once have to quit the throne which has cost his Parisian patron so much to erect for him. Of course a foreign ruler will be unable to remain long in Mexico unless he be supported by military forces drawn from elsewhere. The news which comes from beyond the Atlantic seems to indicate that the somewhat conjectural telegraphic reports about the withdrawal of the French troops may be true. Louis Napoleon is tired of his experiment in the matter of establishing a tributary empire in Mexico. The dispatches tell us that he is going to recall his troops "as a concession to American opinion," and in view of events that have recently transpired it is not unlikely that the announcement of this contemplated movement and the explanation of its cause may both be quite true.

Many have asserted that our Government had entirely abandoned the Monroe doctrine, but every observing person knew that this declaration was premature. Our Government, preoccupied with other weighty matters at home, has simply permitted the Mexican question to lie over until such a time as it could take action upon it. The sharp vision of the French Emperor may be able to discover that this time is now near at hand. Secretary Seward in his recent Auburn speech said: "The United States must continue to exercise as before the late civil war they always did exercise, a just influence in the international conduct of foreign States, particularly those which are near us on this continent, and which are especially endeared to us by their adoption of republican institutions." Further on, the distinguished Secretary said: "I expect that we shall see republican institutions, wherever they have been heretofore established throughout the American continent, speedily vindicated, renewed and reinvigorated." This doctrine he assures us, the President has not lost sight of for a moment. This is the most important announcement that has lately been made respecting our policy. It comes, it is to be remembered, from a man, who both by the position he holds and by the authority of his name is entitled to be listened to and confided in. Keeping in mind these utterances of Mr. Seward, no one can think very highly of the tenure by whereby Maximilian holds possession of his throne. We need not be surprised to find the French leaving Mexico very soon, and that poor shadow of an Emperor, Maximilian the First and the last, following close after them.

MORE "DISORGANIZERS."—In an article published the other day we remarked that "the President's Southern policy fails to satisfy a large number of the best friends of the country." The Statesman sees "disorganization" in these words, denies the correctness of the statement embodied in them, and is "at a loss to know" who these members of the Union party and friends of the country may be, who are not satisfied with the President's "experiment." We can mention a good many men of national reputation who may be counted among the number of those who while they doubted the success of the "experiment" from the first, were willing to give it a trial, but now after its fruits are apparent, desire the plan to be modified to suit the necessities of the times. These men, it is true, have been in very bad odor with the Statesman ever since they were unceremoniously ejected from its new "conservative" party, to make room for such individuals as "Sunset" Cox—(vide the Statesman of October 2d), but still we think their opinions on national affairs are of much weight and value. Among those whom the Salem paper calls "disorganizers" because they wish our Southern policy to be more stringent and because they urge the imperative necessity that is on the Government of carrying a stronger hand over the rebel malcontents of the South, are such men as General Banks, Thaddeus Stevens, Charles Sumner, Gen. Butler, Senator Wade, John A. Bingham, General Ashley, General Schenck, and indeed nearly all the representative men of the nation who have stood forward most prominently in support of the Government during the last five years. But as the Statesman has thrown these men out of its "conservative" party, we presume it will incline its ear no more to their teachings, but will rather take counsel from the "new Union men of the South"—that class who one year ago were violent rebels, but who are now included among the "conservatives" that compose the "new national organization" which, according to the organ of the Salem politicians, was established awhile ago in the East, and which, without doubt, has a "branch" at the capital of Oregon.

The Statesman endeavors to substantiate the absurd allegation, that as we said the best friends of the country are not satisfied with the President's Southern policy, we are therefore unwilling for men who once were Democrats, to be reckoned as members of the Union party. It drivels through a quarter of a column to show that our purpose is to exclude from the membership of the Union party all who united with the Republicans five years ago, and that we recognize none as good Union men who once belonged to the Democratic party. This idea is eminently worthy of the Statesman. It never would have occurred to that paper had it not remembered its own project (the details of which it gave us a few weeks since,) whereby all except "conservatives" were to be left out of the "new party." Now we cheerfully and gladly admit that many of these former Democrats are fit to be counted among the wisest of our patriots, the best friends of the country and the most faithful members of the party which preserved the Union. How do these men regard the lax policy which has hitherto been pursued by the Government, but which is now much amended? What does B. F. Butler think of it? His recent speeches furnish an answer. What does John A. Logan say? That the Government has been too lenient and magnanimous. Such also is the opinion of Joseph Holt, of Daniel S. Dickinson, of General Schenck, and of all the most prominent loyal Democrats of the country.

The Statesman's difficulty lies partly in its being so firmly wedded to its new "conservative" party that it is unable to see things except with the vision of one who inclines to Copperheadism, and partly in the fact that it must pretend to support the President even if he should go wrong. It has too little independence to give a fair and moderate criticism upon his Administration, or to use any save the most adulatory language concerning him. In fact it is too servile to "differ from him in anything that it knows of." For ourselves, we have confidence in his Administration and shall give it our support; but if in criticising its measures in an impartial and temperate manner, we make ourselves obnoxious to the "conservatives" of Salem, we have the satisfaction of knowing that we are in the company of such eminent "disorganizers" as Banks, Butler, Logan, Wade, and even of Chief Justice Chase.

The proceeds of the cotton captured in Charleston and Savannah amounts to nearly $6,000,000. The Government has realized nearly $7,000,000 from the cotton captured and sold during the past year.

DEACON [illegible] WESTERN [illegible].—A [illegible] meeting of the [illegible] was held at their rooms on October 18th, for the purpose of listening to a lecture by Lieutenant Governor Bross [illegible] connected with his recent tour [illegible]. The [illegible] says that owing to the unpleasant nature of the weather only a small audience assembled. The President, Dr. H. A. Johnson, called the society to order at eight o'clock and introduced Lieutenant Governor Bross, who stated that the object of the lecture would simply be to give a few facts in regard to geology and mineralogy of the [illegible] as they had been presented to him. After alluding to the [illegible] by Colfax and party, of which the lecturer was a member, he went on to [illegible] the geological formation of the continent of North America. The three great mountain ranges which mark the continent, the Alleghany on the east, the Rocky in the west, including between them the valley of the Mississippi, and the Sierra Nevada on the Pacific coast were in turn commented on. Governor Bross then gave a sketch of the route taken by his party to the Pacific coast, and in [illegible] his views of the best route for the Pacific Railroad. There was a slope of some 400 to 600 miles in length from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains and giving an ascent of some 5,000 feet, which is so gradual as hardly to be perceptible. Following up the Great Platte river the range is traversed by the South Pass. Though this was the best route for the great Pacific Railway on account of the easy grade which nature had provided, thence down the Snake and Columbia rivers.

Speaking of Utah the Deacon said it also as well as Colorado abounded in minerals, including the precious metals, coal and iron. The speaker predicted that in a year silver would be shipped from Idaho by the ton. In addition to the regions already enumerated, the lecturer alluded briefly to the mineral resources of Montana and the Fraser river country, and exhibited a specimen of gold from the latter locality. He predicted also that as explorations of the gold bearing regions of the continent continue, the precious metals will be discovered in quantities which will astonish the world. In conclusion Governor Bross alluded eloquently to the vast resources of our country and splendid future of material prosperity made possible thereby.

THE NORTH BRITISH ON BRADDON.—The North British Review takes advantage of its position to administer to Miss Braddon, the novelist, a scathing criticism. The reviewer thus passes sentence upon her:

"In her own branch of literature she is without a living rival. The notoriety she has acquired is her due reward for having written tales which are as fascinating to all regulated minds as police reports and divorce cases. Her achievements may not command our respect, but they are very notable and almost unexampled. Others before her have written stories of blood and lust, of atrocious crimes and hardened criminals, and these have excited the interest of a very wide circle of readers. But the class that welcomed them was the lowest in the social scale, as well as in mental capacity. To Miss Braddon belongs the credit of having penned similar stories in easy and correct English, and published them in three volumes in place of issuing them in penny numbers. She may boast without fear of contradiction, of having temporarily succeeded in making the literature of the kitchen the favorite reading in the drawing room."

END OF THE EXPERIMENT.—Under this caption the Sacramento Union of the 15th November says:

"The President's experiment may be said to have completed its circle, ending where it began. The disappointment at Washington must be great. The President has [illegible] the emancipation of the poor whites from the political serfdom in which they were trained before the war. Upon a basis of ignorance, military pride and savage prejudice against the negro, the architects of the 'Confederacy' are building a fabric of sovereignty to-day with as much confidence and certainty as they exhibited when they assembled at Montgomery and banished the national flag from the sacred soil."

After reading the above will not the Oregon Statesman proceed to inform us that the Sacramento Union is "a disorganizer?" And shall we not be told over again that all the friends of the President and the country are perfectly satisfied with the "experiment" that has been tried? We suppose the Statesman will not permit the Union to have a seat among the elect in the new "conservative" party.

The Statesman "will have [illegible] preaching slavery and denying liberty before the Union men of Oregon."—Oregonian.

The Statesman does not preach slavery or deny liberty.—Statesman.

Will you please then inform us what you mean by saying that the "Union men will have a good time preaching the doctrine of the equality of human rights to the Union men of Oregon." If your words which we have just quoted do not plainly imply that you are opposed to human freedom they can have and were intended to have no signification whatever.

The Confederate Democrat indignantly says:

"The statement that President Johnson said to Gov. Fletcher of Missouri that 'this is a white man's country, and while I am President it shall be a white man's Government,' is unqualifiedly denied. But he did say to the negro regiment whom he recently reviewed: 'This is as much your country as anybody else's.'"

The Democrat does keep reasonably well informed about Andrew Johnson. It could easily teach the Statesman much concerning him, as that journal evidently don't know much about the opinions of the President whom it mistakenly professes to follow.

Alluding to the silent amazement with which the Democratic organs receive Mr. Johnson's speech to the negro soldiers, the N. Y. Post says:

"It is known that a 65 pounder, or other heavy cannon fired over the waters of a shallow bay, will kill, by its concussion, the lobsters and other hard shell fish. They fall into convulsions and perish in great numbers. The President's 100 pounder seems to have similarly affected the people who call themselves Democrats. They are struck with an universal lockjaw; they are amazed—'dumbfounded,' to use a vulgar phrase. They make altogether a very ludicrous and pitiable spectacle."

Ferd. Patterson, who made his name memorable in Idaho, has left the Territory for his old home at the East.—Idaho World.

He will have to amend his life and manners greatly when he gets there or he will go to the penitentiary or gallows in a month's time. He will not find another considerate jury of fellow Democrats at the East, as he did in Idaho. He took good care not to come by way of Portland, or he would have had a term of service in a penal work house here.

JEFF. DAVIS.—"It is reported," says the Confederate Democrat, "that this gentleman will never be brought to trial." Gentleman, did you remark, O Democrat? Yes, gentleman is the word. It is quite fitting that the person who exclaimed against the execution of Mr. Lincoln's murderers and called Wirz a guiltless man should also pronounce Jeff. Davis a "gentleman."

The Walla Walla Statesman is in favor of the annexation of that county to Oregon "for the reason that we have a splendid Penitentiary which will be of great benefit to this [that] in the way of securing prisoners." Not much of a compliment to Walla Walla, nor a very enchanting prospect for Oregon.

[illegible] has been tendered and has accepted the Presidency of the American Land Company and Emigration Agency, the object of which is to bring a larger amount of the New England element into the South and develop its agricultural and mineral resources.

On Sunday, the 19th inst., a hurricane occurred at Walla Walla, doing much damage both in the town and the surrounding country. The Statesman says it was the most destructive ever known in that locality.

A NEGRO PAPER.—The New Orleans Tribune, owned and edited by colored persons, relates the following incident:

"When Carl Schurz arrived in this city he became the guest of General Canby. It was in the evening. Next morning after breakfast General Schurz said he would be pleased to look at some loyal city paper. 'There is none,' replied General Canby, 'except the Tribune, which is a negro paper.'"

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO NOVEMBER 17.

The Scare in Canada.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Advices from the front [illegible] the coming of November 1st state that the excitement has somewhat subsided. The troops are still under arms with [illegible]. [illegible] Montreal [illegible] the Fenians as rebels.

The Russian Telegraph.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The [illegible] special says application was made to the Navy Department by Ethan Allen, of New York, on behalf of the [illegible] Telegraph Company, for a vessel in laying the cable across Behring's Straits. The application was refused by the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, on the ground that it was exclusively a private enterprise.

From Mexico—Successes of the Liberals.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The World's Washington telegraph says intelligence was received to-day and communicated to proper authorities relative to the situation in Mexico. A gentleman who arrived here, whose word can be relied on, says that on his way from [illegible] to N. Y. within the last two weeks he met an agent of Maximilian, who stated that affairs were nearly in a hopeless condition; that every [illegible] of the Imperialists brought no substantial results, and that on account of their inability to [illegible] in the rural districts [illegible] the war was carried on against the Liberals at a great expense. He further added that he had been dispatched by Maximilian to France to ask for a hundred million dollars and forty thousand troops, and that in the event of Napoleon failing to furnish the means and men the evacuation of Mexico by the French must follow. Maximilian was paying great attention to Yucatan, but had removed his personal effects to that place, intending to set sail from there in case the City of Mexico had to be abandoned. It was reported that he was shipping a good deal of specie to Europe.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—The Brownsville Republican extra of November 7th announces the capture of Monterey by the Liberals under Trevino. It also says: No reinforcements had arrived for Matamoras. A merchant who arrived here says a large number of French are landing at Bagdad.

The extra says: General Pedro Mendoza had arrived and joined Canales before Matamoras with 1,800 Liberals. He had previously surprised the town of [illegible], and utterly destroyed the imperial garrison of one hundred men, including a number of French troops.

The Liberals claim that they can take Matamoras when they please.

The Matamoras Ranchero says the Liberals offered four hours for the plunder of Matamoras to United States troops at Brownsville who are asked to join them. The Ranchero warns the Federal commander to keep a sufficient force at Brownsville to prevent an attack.

The Galveston Bulletin of November 11th says: Colonel Jones of [illegible] staff was there having left Brownsville Nov. [illegible]. He says that Capt. [illegible] of the Liberal army, formerly [illegible], captured an Imperial transport on the North Rio Grande, brought her to Brownsville and turned her over to the Federal authorities, who have a guard on board. The Imperial gunboat passed up from Bagdad to Matamoras.

In Texas the Indians have created a great alarm on the northern frontier.

The Austin Intelligencer [illegible] to say that Governor Hamilton will soon issue an order for the election of delegates to a State Convention to be held about the 1st of December.

The Houston Telegraph of November 10th learns that orders have been received in the State from Washington not to muster out any more troops or sell any more property until further orders.

The Germans in Texas are preparing to plant cotton, which they raise exclusively by free labor.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—A wealthy Matamoras merchant who left there November 5 says there are no fears of the place being captured. It is well fortified, the troops are well armed, in good spirits and well supplied.

Financial Matters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The firmness of gold, which closed to-day at 147, is exciting corresponding feeling in commercial circles. The general [illegible] markets are buoyant and firm. Foreign goods are steady at improved prices. Flour and wheat are firm. Pork in sellers favor. Stocks lower. The steadiness of United States securities and the consequent decline [illegible] result of the country being overloaded with them. The policy of the Government favors contraction to a general decline of prices. Foreign Exchange is dull at 108½.

Mississippi Affairs.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—Judge Sharkey at Jackson, Miss., has decided that the action of the Legislature in abolishing the Cotton Court is unconstitutional. Gov. Humphreys vetoed the bill, but the Legislature passed the bill over his head.

The Mississippi Legislature adopted a memorial praying the President to remove the troops from the State.

The House of Representatives have rejected by a vote a proposition to admit negro testimony.

The Vicksburg Herald says General Howard stated that he had not discovered the condition of affairs was promising enough in the Southern States to justify a recommendation of withdrawal of the Freedmen's Bureau. He regards affairs as unpromising in Georgia and Alabama.

Virginia Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Virginia correspondent of the National Intelligencer says Curtis, Chandler, Rogers, Barbour and Davis are elected to Congress and will take the oath without scruple. It is not known whether the other two, Stuart and Conrad, will be able to take the oath prescribed.

General Logan Accepts the Mexican Mission.

NEW YORK, November 17.—The Commercial's Washington special says General Logan has signified his acceptance of the mission to Mexico.

In the suit against the Independent Telegraph Company for damages in consequence of sending a message incorrectly, the jury returned a verdict for the amount claimed.

Intelligence was received to-day of the steamer [illegible], on Cape Fear river, below Wilmington, blowing up. The passengers and crew were saved.

ROCHESTER, (N. Y.) Nov. 18.—A fire destroyed the edge tool factory of Dr. Barton this morning. Loss $36,000; insured for $17,000.

[illegible] TO THE PRESSURE.—A pregnant sign of the times is to be found in the important manifesto of the Emperor of Austria to his people, bearing date September 21st. According to a correspondent:

"The manifesto solemnly guarantees and irrevocably establishes the right of the people of the empire to participate through their representatives in legislation and in the control of the finances, and it declared to be a part of the constitution of the empire. It also points out that the constant wish of the Emperor, viz: the formation of a durable and constitutional charter of rights for the empire which would receive strength and importance from the free participation of all the subjects of the empire, has up to the present time remained unfulfilled and cannot be realized so long as the first condition of bringing all its component parts into clear and unmistakable harmony remains unfulfilled.

The manifesto goes on to state that in order to redeem his word, and not to sacrifice the sense to the letter, the Emperor has determined first to enter upon the way leading to an understanding with the legal representatives of his people in the eastern portions of the monarchy, and to lay for acceptance before the Hungarian and Croatian Diets the October diploma and fundamental law promulgated by the February patent concerning their representation of the empire."

The Idaho World says that Judge McBride is going to resign. The reason given is that he thinks it a serious inconvenience for Territorial officers not to receive their salary.

They have some exceedingly comical actors at Salt Lake. The Vedette tells of [illegible] up among the rafters.

The British Colonist of Nov. 22d has the subjoined:

We learn that a petition is going around for signature praying the Home Government in any scheme of Union, to keep Victoria a free port, and the two colonies under different fiscal systems. We have not been able to learn much about either the details of the scope of this vigorous movement, but from the secrecy with which the affair is conducted it has been intimated that it is one of the numerous schemes which the Yankees are trying to have carried for the annexation of the colonies. Be that as it may, however, the promoters of the free port prayer are, we believe, getting up simultaneously another petition calling upon Mr. Cardwell to press on President Johnson the ground that he is in favor of heavy import duties. We shall watch carefully the effects of these alarming documents on the mind of Downing Street.

Yesterday afternoon a man rushed into town to inform the authorities that he had discovered the dead body of Mr. Richard Smith, an old settler who resides a short distance off the Saanich road, between Swan Lake and the Royal Oak, lying on the trail leading to his house. The informant was highly excited and did not stop to make a careful examination, but said that he was walking on the trail and suddenly came upon the lifeless body of Mr. Smith, who had a severe wound on his head, by his side lay his horse also a corpse, and his wagon turned upside down, the presumption being that the unfortunate man upset the vehicle, killing himself and horse. Coroner Dickson gave directions for an investigation of the circumstances connected with the tragedy, by a police officer who was at once dispatched to the spot with instructions to summon a jury to attend to the inquest to be held at Bayley's Royal Oak Tavern today at two o'clock.

SURRATT'S HOUSE AT AUCTION.—A Washington letter writer says:

"There is to be an auction at the Surratt house, on H street, in this city. The rooms in which Payne slept, and Booth conspired, are to be thrown open to the idle gaze of a crowd, while all the household furniture and utensils are to be knocked down to the highest bidder by the auctioneer's hammer. Even the house, which belongs to John Surratt and his sister, who now occupies it, is for rent. The estate of Surratt, save the disinterred corpse in the arsenal yard, is to disappear from Washington. The house continues to be an object of interest to strangers and citizens. I may add here that it has always been something of a mystery as to what caused the detectives to go to the Surratt house in little more than an hour after Mr. Lincoln was shot on that terrible night. They went there and inquired for John Surratt about midnight. Not finding him they went away, and did not go there again until the next Wednesday night when Payne came in and was caught. Weichman, the witness, could not have given the information for he was in the house abed and asleep when the detectives called. The fact may also be cited that the detective force who inquired for Surratt that same night belonged to the Metropolitan police, while those who arrested Payne some days afterwards at that house, were attached to General Augur's headquarters. The two visits here have been so mixed up in conflicting accounts that the public are doubtless not aware of the fact that in about an hour after the assassination the authorities were at the conspirators' headquarters and close on the heels of the assassins. So much for the Surratt house."

JEFF. DAVIS.—The New York Herald of Oct. 18th, has the following Washington dispatch:

During the interview on Friday between the President and the South Carolina delegates, he said that if treason has been committed there ought to be some test by the highest tribunal as to the power of the Government to punish the crime, in order to assert the vindication of the Government and the Constitution, even if the Executive clemency should thereafter be exercised. This repetition of his intention certainly does not comport with the assertion of at least one newspaper correspondent (and which have been extensively published), that "the President has no idea of bringing Jefferson Davis to trial." The delay has certainly not been the fault of the administration, nor is there any reason to believe that the desired test has been abandoned. It is known that it is the business of the judiciary and not of the Executive to initiate proceedings in the premises; but there is a difference in views among jurists, and the opinion has been advanced that, in the present unsettled condition of the Southern States which are still under martial law (in one of which the trial would have to take place, no general place having been proclaimed), additional legislation by Congress may become necessary, and further, there would not be time enough between now and the first Monday of December to try the case; for at that period the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States will commence their regular term at the capital. Whatever may be the ultimate disposition of Jefferson Davis and others, this appears to be the present condition of the important subject.

A negro in St. Louis who was supposed to be dead, arose in his coffin during the funeral ceremony and set the women all fainting, the men to shrieking and the parson in hysterics. Moving his not entirely sightless orbs around the company of mourners, his clay lips began to chatter some unintelligible stuff about the other world. The distressed widow ran out of the room and out of the house, and nothing could induce her to return during the day, notwithstanding she was assured that her husband was conscious, and the doctor thought he might recover.

It is stated that McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine which bears his name, has recently died in an insane asylum in Illinois.

The Reason why so Many Die with Consumption, is because they neglect to use the proper remedy in season. When the system is first attacked with a cough, oppression of the chest, or seated pains in the breast, Allen's Lung Balsam will cause the phlegm to rise, heals the irritated parts, and restores the system to health. For sale by

Incidents of General Sherman's Military Career

[From "Sherman and his Campaigns, a Military Biography," by Colonel S. M. Bowman and Lieutenant Colonel R. B. Irwin, New York.]

AFTER VICKSBURG

After the capture of Vicksburg Sherman wrote to Admiral Porter:

"I can appreciate the intense satisfaction you must feel at lying before the very monster that has defied us with such deep and malignant hate, and seeing your once disunited fleet again a unit; and better still the chain that made the inclosed sea of a link in the great river broken forever. In so magnificent a result I stop not to count who did it. It is done, and the day of our nation's birth is consecrated and baptized anew in a victory won by the united navy and army of our country. God grant that the harmony and mutual respect that exists between our respective commanders and shared by all the true men of the joint service may continue forever, and serve to elevate our national character threatened with shipwreck. Thus I muse as I sit in my solitary camp out in the wood far from the point from which we have justly striven so long and so well, and though personal curiosity would tempt me to go and see the frowning batteries and sunken pits that have defied us so long and sent to their silent graves so many of our early comrades in the enterprise, I feel that other tasks lie before me, and time must not be lost. Without casting anchor, and despite the heat and the dust and the drouth, I must again into the bowels of the land to make the conquest of Vicksburg fulfill all the conditions it should in the progress of this war. Whether success attend my efforts or not, I know that Admiral Porter will ever accord to me the exhibition of a pure and unselfish zeal in the service of our country.

"Though further apart, the navy and army will still act in concert, and I assure you I shall never reach the banks of the river or see a gunboat, but I will think of Admiral Porter, Captain Breese, and the many elegant and accomplished gentlemen it has been my good fortune to meet on armed or unarmed decks of the Mississippi squadron."

SHERMAN ON CONSCRIPTION.

While the new levies of 1863 were being raised in a letter to the Governor of his native State, he took occasion to urge the importance of filling up the ranks of the veteran regiments rather than raising new ones. "I believe," he said, "you will pardon one who rarely travels out of his proper sphere to express an earnest hope that the strength of our people will not again be wasted by the organization of new regiments, while we have in the field skeleton regiments, with officers, non-commissioned officers, and men who only need numbers to make a magnificent army."

"The President of the United States is now clothed with a power that should have been conferred just two years ago, and I feel assured he will use it. He will call for a large mass of men, and they should all be privates, and sent so as to make every regiment in the field equal to one thousand men. Time has convinced all reasonable men that war in theory and practice are two distinct things. Many an honest patriot, full of enthusiasm, zeal and thirst for glory, has in practice found himself unequal to the actual requirements of war, and passed to one side, leaving another in his place; and now, after two years, Ohio has in the field one hundred and twenty-six regiments, whose officers now are qualified, and the men of which would give tone and character to the new recruits. To fill these regiments will require fifty thousand recruits, which are as many as the State could well raise. I therefore hope and pray that you will use your influence against any more new regiments, and consolidation of our old ones, but fill up all the old ones to a full standard. Those who talk of prompt and speedy peace know not what they say."

SHERMAN MADE BRIGADIER IN THE REGULAR ARMY.

On the 11th of August he received from the War Department a commission as Brigadier General in the regular army of the United States, dating from the 4th of July, 1863, and thus acknowledged his indebtedness to General Grant for this new honor:

"I had the satisfaction to receive last night the appointment as Brigadier General in the regular army, with a letter from Gen. Halleck, very friendly and complimentary in its terms. I know that I owe this to your favor, and beg to acknowledge it, and add that I value the commission far less than the fact that this will associate my name with yours and McPherson's in opening the Mississippi—an achievement the importance of which cannot be over-estimated.

"I beg to assure you of my deep personal attachment, and to express the hope that the chances of war will leave me to serve near and under you till the dawn of that peace for which we are contending, with the only purpose that it shall be honorable and lasting."

THE STORY OF THE VICKSBURG PROTEST.

Col. Bowman thus tells the true story of the "protest" said to have been written by Sherman against Grant's plan for the capture of Vicksburg:

It has been alleged in some of the newspapers of the day that, while the army was encamped at Young's Point, General Sherman handed to Gen. Grant a written protest against the proposed movement on Grand Gulf, and the statement has been coupled with such a show of circumstances as to obtain ready credence in many quarters. In fact, General Sherman never protested, either in writing or verbally, against any movement ever proposed or adopted by General Grant; and throughout the entire campaign these two commanders acted together in perfect harmony and cordiality, the Commander-in-Chief freely availing himself of Sherman's advice, the subordinate promptly and faithfully carrying out the orders of his superior. But the movement on Grand Gulf was not Sherman's plan. It was the conception of General Grant's own mind, and was adopted by him, against the opinion, though with the full consent and support of the Executive. Sherman considered the north front of Vicksburg the true point of attack, and the line of the Yallabusha the best base of operations. On the 8th of April he frankly expressed this opinion to Gen. Grant in the following communication:

"I would most respectfully suggest that Gen. Grant call on his corps commanders for their opinions, concise and positive, on the best general plan of campaign.

"My opinions are:

"First—That the Army of the Tennessee is far in advance of the other grand armies.

"Second—that a corps from Missouri should forthwith be removed from St. Louis to the vicinity of Little Rock (Ark.), supplies collected while the river is full, and land communication with Memphis opened by way of Des Ark, on the White and Madison, on the St. Francis rivers.

"Third—That as much of Yazoo Pass, Coldwater and Tallahatchie rivers as can be regained and forced, to be held, and the main army be transported thither by land or water; that the road back to Memphis be secured and reopened, and as soon as the waters subside Grenada be attacked, and the swamp roads across to Helena be paroled by cavalry.

"Fourth—That the line of the Yallabusha be the base from which to operate against the points where the Mississippi Central crosses the Big Black above Canton, and, lastly, where the Vicksburg and Jackson Railroad crosses the same river. The capture of Vicksburg would result.

"Fifth—That a force be left in this vicinity, not to exceed ten thousand men, with only enough steamboats to float and transport them to any desired point. This force to be held always near enough to act with the gunboats when the main army is known to be near Vicksburg, Haines' Bluff or Yazoo City.

"The chief reason for operating solely by water was the season of the year, and high water in Tallahatchie and Yallabusha. The spring is now here, and soon these streams will be no serious obstacle save the ambuscades of forest and what ever works the enemy may have erected at or near Grenada. North Mississippi is too valuable to allow them to hold and make crops.

"I make these suggestions with the request that General Grant simply read them and simply give them, as I know he will, a share of his thoughts. I would prefer he should not answer them, but merely give them as much or as little weight as they deserve."

And he added in conclusion:

"Whatever plan of action he may adopt will receive from me the same zealous co-operation and energetic support as though conceived by myself."

SHERMAN PROPOSES HIS GREAT MARCH.

Sherman had previously proposed to General Grant, in the early stages of the pursuit, to break up the railway from Chattanooga to Atlanta, and strike out for Milledgeville, Millen and Savannah. "Until we can repopulate Georgia," he wrote, "it is useless to occupy it, but the utter destruction of its roads, houses and people will cripple their military resources. By attempting to hold the roads we will lose a thousand men monthly, and will gain no result. I can make the march, and make Georgia howl." And again: "Hood may turn into Tennessee and Kentucky, but I believe he will be forced to follow me. Instead of being on the defensive I will be on the offensive. Instead of guessing at what he means, he would have to guess at my plans. The difference in war is full twenty-five per cent. I can make Savannah, Charleston, or the mouth of the Chattahoochee. I prefer to march through Georgia, smashing things, to the sea." He now proposed to the Lieutenant General to modify these plans, so far as to give him the choice of either of the three alternatives just named.

"I must have alternatives," he said, "else being confined to one route, the enemy might so oppose that delay and want would trouble me, but having alternatives, I can take so eccentric a course that no General can guess at my objective. Therefore, when you hear I am off, have lookouts at Morris Island, S. C., Ossabaw Sound (Ga.), Pensacola and Mobile bays. I will turn up somewhere, and believe me I can take Milledgeville, Augusta and Savannah (Georgia), and wind up with the closing neck back of Charleston, so that they will starve out. This movement is not purely military or strategic, but it will illustrate the vulnerability of the South."

General Grant in reply authorized the proposed movement, indicating, however, his preference for Savannah as the objective, and fixing Dalton as the northern limit of the destruction of the railway. Preparations were instantly undertaken and pressed forward for the consummation of these plans.

SHERMAN ON [illegible] NEWSPAPERS.

"General Milroy's letter of July 26th, with your endorsement, is now before me. He asks to suppress the sale and circulation, in this district, of certain mischievous and incendiary newspapers, and transmits to the certain steps as proofs of the mischievous character of such papers. I would willingly suppress them were it possible to do so, but in human nature there is so much of the mule that prohibition of a newspaper only increases its circulation. The press is a power in the land. For a quarter of a century past it has been sowing the whirlwind and now we reap the storm. It is my opinion that the freedom of the press to publish mischievous matter, like personal slander, libel, false statements of facts, or other matter calculated to promote desertions in the army, or designed to give information to the enemy, should be regulated by statute law. At present we are going through the expensive but natural process which may result in a resort to the knife and pistol for the defense of reputation. It is already demonstrated we must use the military power to put down the circulation of newspapers hurtful to the public service.

"The suppression of the few papers mentioned by General Milroy would be something like undertaking to dam up the tributaries of the Ohio to stop the flood of the Mississippi. If General Milroy finds anybody selling in his district publications within the sphere of his authority, he might give him a good thrashing or put him in the stocks, but he cannot reach the editors and publishers who are making money by the publication in New York, Chicago or Louisville.

"Each military commander, subject to me, may suppress all disorders and immoralities in the sphere of his command as best he can, but my belief is, the proper remedy is to punish the men who publish the objectionable matter, if residing in this jurisdiction, or if absent, then the party who circulates the papers. Give a good horsewhipping to any man who would dare advise a soldier to desert. This is all the notice I would take of such things at this epoch of the war."

SHERMAN ON HORSE STEALING.

General Sherman did not always write in the vehement style. Some of his letters have a spice of humor in them quite refreshing, as the following specimen will show. The gentleman to whom it was addressed was a chaplain in the rebel army, who had been captured at Chattanooga and released from capture, and, as it would seem, was relieved of his horse at the same time, which latter fact he felt to be a great hardship; and when Sherman arrived at Atlanta the chaplain applied by letter sent through our lines, for an order to compel the fellow who had deprived him of his horse to restore him, or the General to send him another one in his stead. This was the General's decision, dated at Atlanta, on the 16th of September, 1864:

"Dear sir: Your letter of September 11th is received. I approach a question involving a title to a 'horse' with deference to the laws of war. That mysterious code, of which we talk so much but know so little, is remarkably silent on the horse. He is a beast so tempting to the soldier—to him of the wild cavalry, the fancy artillery, or the patient infantry—that I find more difficulty in recovering a worthless, spavined beast than in paying a million of greenbacks; so that I fear I must reduce your claim to one of finance, and refer you to the great Board of Claims in Washington; that may reach your case by the time your child becomes a great grandfather.

"Privately, I think it was a shabby thing in the scamp of the Thirty first Missouri who took your horse, and the Colonel or Brigadier should have restored him. But I cannot undertake to make good the sins or omission of my own Colonels or Brigadiers, much less of a former guerrilla. When this cruel war is over, and peace once more gives you a parish, I will promise, if near you, to procure, out of one of Uncle Sam's corrals, a beast that will replace the one taken from you so wrongfully, but now it is impossible. We have a big journey before us, and need all we have, and, I fear, more too; so look out when the Yankees are about and hide your beasts, for my experience is that all soldiers are very careless in a search after horses."

General Banks on Reconstruction.—General Banks, at the invitation of some prominent citizens of Lawrence, Mass., lately spoke in that city. He said the great question now before the people was how to secure and perpetuate the results which freedom had gained through the war. Slavery was dead, but there were other questions on which the South might unite; if those who have been the leaders of the rebellion should again have power they would propose the assumption of the rebel debt, or repudiation of the National debt, and social, political and financial bonds would unite the South again as firmly as ever. He thought the policy of President Johnson too liberal, and that the change of administration caused by the death of Mr. Lincoln, was injurious to the future of the country. The proclamation of the 29th of May, disfranchising the rebel leaders was a step in the right direction, and if the President adhered to the principles there announced—that rebels active in the war could not be restored to civil rights without special pardon—all would be well. There were indications, however, that the exercise of the pardoning power was more general than was desirable. The speaker then contrasted this policy with that of President Lincoln. The late President apprehended the fact that the border States always had and would control the Union, and had prepared to organize governments there and restore them to the Union as soon as possible. He was in less haste about the Atlantic and Gulf States, desiring to prevent any concentration of interest or purpose among the States lately in rebellion, until their loyalty should be fully established. These controlling States which it was proposed first to restore, were Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Louisiana. General Banks then went into an exposition of the new Constitution of Louisiana, which Mr. Lincoln declared to be the best ever made by man, and which it was claimed, if it had received the support of the Government would have before this secured equal rights to all the people of the State. The Constitution had its chief merit in the fact that it recognized the dignity and influence of labor, and the same principle must be recognized throughout the South before those States could be organized on a substantial foundation. The Negroes of the North must be supported and defended, and their children educated, that they may be prepared for the duties of freedmen. The government of the country must be in the mass of people who have not, from choice, been engaged in the rebellion, and that included the laboring classes of the South, as well as the intellectual and laboring classes of the North.

The Price of Bank Note Paper.—We observe that the New England paper makers have made an advance of fifty per cent. on the bank paper of the Treasury Department, which consumes a large amount of that material in the issue of paper currency, bonds, and so fourth. This rise in the price of material has suggested the idea of establishing a government mill on the Potomac, where all the bank paper required can be made from foreign rags imported from the Mediterranean free of duty. This idea, excellent in point of economy, can be improved upon by taking a hint from the Bank of England, which manufactures its own bank paper with a water line mark that cannot be counterfeited unless a mill be especially established for fraudulent purposes—a thing not at all likely to be done either here or in England. Another lesson might be learned from the Bank of England, and that is the system of destroying every note as it is redeemed and issuing another fresh one with the same number on its face. By this means the possibility of circulating a counterfeit Bank of England note is very small. Counterfeits upon our currency are becoming quite common and the next thing we shall hear of will be counterfeit United States bonds. The idea of the Treasury Department manufacturing its own bank paper, if it adopts the system of a water line, which will render counterfeiting impossible, is an excellent one, and we hope it will be carried out.—N. Y. Herald.

Too Much Ammunition.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger states that complaint is made that too much ammunition is finding its way to Southern ports. There was no limit fixed on the amount to be shipped, and hence, if the amount going forward is dangerous to the peace of the nation, the Government is alone responsible. A statement upon this subject will probably be called for at the hands of the Collectors of the Northern ports, and, if the complaint that the shipments are too large for safety is found correct, an order reducing them to a certain standard will no doubt be issued.

A Retrospect

[From the London Athenæum, September 30th.]

A year, a little year, ago, a part of the English public was invited by its teachers to believe that the American civil war was over. The two great armies of the North were said to be ruined. General Grant without a plan, but with a demoralized mob of armed men, was pictured as floundering in the mud of the James river, which he would find it hard to escape, even with the loss of his stores and artillery. General Sherman having been drawn away from his base by Hood, and being unable to hold Atlanta in the face of Hood, was described as breaking up his camp and flying towards the sea, in the hope, unlikely to be fulfilled, of finding shelter from the enemy on his ships.

Men who felt no objection to the rise of a slave empire and women who adored the chivalry of Preston Brooks, were incited by their teachers to kill the fatted calf and subscribe to the Confederate loan. Some people did as they were told. Clubs were joyous and Capel Court rejoiced. Money poured in, and the prospects of the cotton loan improved. Yet to soldiers who paid a fair attention to events it was already clear that the South was broken, and that its submission was but a question of details and of days. Lee was locked fast in Richmond, just as Lloyd had been at Fort Donelson and Pemberton in Vicksburg, with no avenue of escape left open to him but such as led to capture and defeat. Sherman had split the Confederacy into two halves, separating Lee from his supplies and paralyzing Hood.

Of course, the critics who prated about Grant being without a plan, and of Sherman being drawn into a trap, knew little of these great captains, nor even the facts of their campaigns during the current war. A soldier who had studied the strategy which led to the capture of Donelson and Vicksburg, would have found nothing to perplex him in Grant's approaches toward Richmond. Ulysses S. Grant is a man of genius and a fund of new ideas, one who will be found to have contributed fresh materials to the art of war. With him a siege is a campaign. Instead of driving off the covering army from a fort or city, as old rules insisted must be done before commencing operations against it, Grant manœuvres to keep the covering army near him, to throw it within the lines, to compel it to take a part in the defense and to fall when the beleaguered fortress falls. This plan has the disadvantage of making a siege appear long, perplexing critics who cannot see that the close of the siege is to be, under this new system, the close of the campaign.

At Donelson, at Vicksburg, Grant's plan was carried out; in each the covering army fell with the fortress, and in each the blow was final. The fall of Fort Donelson and its covering army put an end to the war in Kentucky and East Tennessee; the fall of Vicksburg and its covering army opened the river Mississippi, never to be closed again by the Southern guns. Each campaign was final; not only sweeping away the army in the field, together with the stores, guns, clothing, ammunition, but crushing in the catastrophe all sparks of rebellious fire. Where Grant had once been it was found impossible to raise a second rebel corps. The fighting spirit was subdued. And that which had been done by Grant in the States of Tennessee and Mississippi was being done by him, on a larger scale and with a stronger enemy, in Virginia, was being done in precisely the same manner and with precisely the same object. Grant had to weaken the Confederate army, shut it up within the lines of Richmond and Petersburg, and compel it to surrender when the Capital fell.

Hence the battles which he fought on his way to York river, hence his refusal to assault the lines on his first approach. He was making a campaign, not simply conducting a siege. Davis had boasted that the war could be maintained in Virginia alone for twenty years after Richmond fell; but like many other critics he made the mistake of misunderstanding Grant. This captain knew his object and the means by which he could gain it. Richmond without Lee would have given him little; Richmond and Lee falling together would give him everything he wanted—victory, Union, peace. In spite of military and civil critics his plans were crowned with magnificent success. The war was finished at a blow, and the surrender of Pemberton was justified in the surrender of Lee.

Sherman, when we came to know him at all, was in some respects better comprehended by the critics than Grant had been. After Savannah fell into his power all nonsense about his being drawn from his base and flying to his ships died out among us. The Horse Guards began to study his remarkable march, and the Duke of Cambridge went to preside at a meeting of the United Service to hear an explanation of it in detail. From that day forward, simply because we began to know him, Sherman became our hero of the war.

The Rate of Money in St. Louis.—The St. Louis Republican of October 20th, says:

The money market is working very close at 10 to 12 per cent. per annum, and the scarcity of currency has compelled many of our banks and bankers to order funds from New York by express, the discount on exchange when forced upon the market being considerably greater than the expense of shipping express.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS AT tended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever offered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions to the debilitated and shattered system. In fact it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS.

And in every disease any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once rebraced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or a dull apathy, becomes bright and active, and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGURY AND BURNING, OR PAINFUL URINATING,
CALCULUS GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females,

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back, and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.
